An Act relative to controlling and abusive litigation.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1           The General Laws are hereby amended by inserting after chapter 209D the following 2 chapter:-

3           Chapter 209E.

4           CONTROLLING AND ABUSIVE LITIGATION PREVENTION

5           Section 1. As used in this chapter, the following words shall, unless the context clearly 6 requires otherwise, have the following meanings:

7           “Abuse”, as defined in section 1 of chapter 209A.

8           "Controlling and abusive litigation", litigation where the following apply:

9           (a)(i) The opposing parties have a current or former family or household member 10 relationship;

11 (ii) The party who is filing, initiating, advancing or continuing the litigation has been 12 found by a court to have committed abuse against the other party pursuant to an order entered 13 under chapters 208, 209, 209A, 209C or 258E, or who is found after a hearing in the instant case, 14 to have committed abuse or harassment against the other party that may have warranted the issue 15 of an order under said chapters; and 16 (iii) The litigation is being initiated, advanced or continued primarily for the purpose of 17 abusing, harassing, intimidating, threatening or maintaining contact with the other party; and 18 (b) At least 1 of the following factors apply:

19 (i) Claims, allegations or other legal contentions made in the litigation are not warranted 20 by existing law or by a reasonable argument for the extension, modification or reversal of 21 existing law, or the establishment of new law;

22 (ii) Allegations and other factual contentions made in the litigation are without the 23 existence of evidentiary support; or

24 (iii) An issue or issues that are the basis of the litigation have previously been filed in 1 or 25 more other courts or jurisdictions and the actions have been litigated and disposed of unfavorably 26 to the party filing, initiating, advancing or continuing the litigation.

27 "Family or household members", as defined section 1 of chapter 209A 28 "Harassment", as defined in section 1 of chapter 258E.

29 "Litigation", any kind of legal action or proceeding including, but not limited to:

30 (i) filing a summons, complaint, demand or petition;

31 (ii) serving a summons, complaint, demand or petition, regardless of whether it has been 32 filed;

33 (iii) filing a motion, notice of court date, note for motion docket or order to appear;

34 (iv) serving a motion, notice of court date or order to appear, regardless of whether it has 35 been filed or scheduled;

36 (v) filing a subpoena, subpoena duces tecum, request for interrogatories, request for 37 production, notice of deposition or other discovery request; or 38 (vi) serving a subpoena, subpoena duces tecum, request for interrogatories, request for 39 production, notice of deposition or other discovery request.

40 "Perpetrator of controlling and abusive litigation", a person who files, initiates, advances 41 or continues litigation in violation of an order restricting controlling and abusive litigation.

42 Section 2. (a) A party to a case may request from the court an order restricting controlling 43 and abusive litigation if the parties are current or former family or household members and one 44 party has been found by the court to have committed abuse or harassment against the other party.

45 The request may be made in any form, including, but not limited to:

46 (1) in any answer or response to the litigation being filed, initiated, advanced or 47 continued;

48 (2) by motion made at any time during any open or ongoing case;

49 (3) in an answer or response to any motion or request for an order; or 50 (4) orally in any hearing.

51 (b) Any court of competent jurisdiction may, on its own motion, determine that a hearing 52 pursuant to section 3 is necessary to determine if a party is engaging in controlling and abusive 53 litigation.

54 (c) The chief justice of the trial court shall create forms for the motion for order 55 restricting controlling and abusive litigation and order restricting controlling and abusive 56 litigation.

57 (d) No filing fee shall be charged to the unrestricted party for proceedings pursuant to this 58 section regardless of whether it is filed pursuant to this chapter.

59 (e) The provisions of this section are nonexclusive and shall not affect any other remedy 60 available.

61 Section 3. (a) If a party asserts that they are being subjected to controlling and abusive 62 litigation, the court shall attempt to verify:

63 (1) that the parties are or previously were family or household 64 members; and

65 (2) that the party raising the claim of controlling and abusive litigation has been found to 66 be a victim of abuse or harassment by the other party or finds, after a hearing in the instant case, 67 that said party has been a victim of abuse or harassment. If the court verifies that both elements 68 are true or is unable to verify that they are not true, the court shall set a hearing to determine 69 whether the litigation meets the definition of controlling and abusive litigation.

70 (b) At the time set for the hearing on the alleged controlling and abusive litigation, the 71 court shall hear all relevant testimony and may require any affidavits, documentary evidence or 72 other records the court deems necessary.

73 Section 4. (a) Evidence of any of the following presented at a hearing conducted pursuant 74 to section 3 shall create a rebuttable presumption that litigation is being initiated, advanced or 75 continued primarily for the purpose of harassing, intimidating or maintaining contact with the 76 other party.

77 (1) The same or substantially similar issues between the same or substantially similar 78 parties have been litigated within the past 5 years in the same court or any other court of 79 competent jurisdiction;

80 (2) The same or substantially similar issues between the same or substantially similar 81 parties have been raised, pled or alleged in the past 5 years and were dismissed on the merits or 82 with prejudice;

83 (3) Within the last 10 years, the party allegedly engaging in controlling and abusive 84 litigation has been sanctioned in 1 or more cases, petitions, motions or other filings that were 85 found to have constituted controlling and abusive litigation, been found not to be supported by 86 good grounds, interposed for the delay or found to be frivolous or brought in bad faith involving 87 the same opposing party; or

88 (4) A court of record in another judicial district has determined that the party allegedly 89 engaging in controlling and abusive litigation has previously engaged in controlling and abusive 90 litigation or similar conduct and has been subject to a court order imposing prefiling restrictions.

91           Section 5. (a) If the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that a party is 92 engaging in controlling and abusive litigation and that any or all of the motions or actions 93 pending before the court are controlling and abusive litigation, the litigation shall be dismissed, 94 denied, stricken or resolved by other disposition with prejudice.

95           (b) In addition to dismissal or denial of any pending controlling and abusive litigation 96 within the jurisdiction of the court, the court shall enter an order restricting controlling and 97 abusive litigation. The order shall:

98           (1) impose all costs of any controlling and abusive civil action pending in the court at the 99 time of the court's finding pursuant to subsection (a) against the party advancing the controlling 100 and abusive litigation, including, but not limited to, court costs, lost wages, transportation costs 101 and costs of child care related to said civil action including trips to court to review files, files 102 pleadings and appear for any type of hearing;

103           (2) award the other party reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of responding to the 104 controlling and abusive litigation including the cost of seeking the order restricting controlling 105 and abusive litigation; and 106           (3) identify the party protected by the order and impose prefiling restrictions upon the 107 party found to have engaged in controlling and abusive litigation for a period of not less than 48 108 months nor more than 72 months.

109           (c) If the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the litigation does not 110 constitute controlling and abusive litigation, the court shall enter written findings and the 111 litigation shall proceed. Nothing in this section or chapter shall be construed as limiting the 112 court's inherent authority to control the proceedings and litigants before it.

113 (d) The provisions of this section are nonexclusive and shall not affect any other remedy 114 available to the person who is protected by the order restricting controlling and abusive litigation 115 or to the court.

116 Section 7. (a) Except as provided for in this section, a person who is subject to an order 117 restricting controlling and abusive litigation is prohibited from filing, initiating, advancing or 118 continuing any litigation against the protected party for the period of time filing restrictions are 119 in effect.

120 (b) A person who is subject to an order restricting controlling and abusive litigation and 121 against whom pre-filing restrictions have been imposed pursuant to section 5 who wishes to 122 initiate a new case or file a motion in an existing case during the time the person is under filing 123 restrictions shall first appear before the judge who imposed the pre-filing restrictions or in front of 124 any person designated by the judge to act in this capacity to make application for permission to 125 institute the civil action.

126 (c)(1) The judge or a designee may examine witnesses, court records and any other 127 available evidence to determine if the proposed litigation is controlling and abusive litigation or 128 if there are reasonable and legitimate grounds upon which the litigation is based.

129 (2) If, based on reviewing the records as well as any evidence from the person who is 130 subject to the order, the judge or designee determines the proposed litigation is controlling and 131 abusive litigation, it shall not be necessary for the person protected by the order to appear or 132 participate in the proposed litigation in any way. If the judge or designee is unable to determine 133 whether the proposed litigation is controlling and abusive without hearing from the person 134 protected by the order, then the court shall issue an order scheduling a hearing and notifying the 135 protected party of the party's right to appear and/or participate in the hearing. The order shall 136 specify whether the protected party is expected to submit a written response. When possible, the 137 protected party shall be permitted to appear virtually and provided with instructions for how to 138 appear virtually.

139 (d)(1) If the judge or designee believes the litigation that the party who is subject to the 140 order restricting controlling and abusive litigation is making application to file will constitute 141 controlling and abusive litigation, the application shall be denied, dismissed or otherwise 142 disposed with prejudice.

143 (2) If the judge reasonably believes that the litigation the party who is subject to the order 144 restricting controlling and abusive litigation is making application to file will not be controlling 145 and abusive litigation, the judge or designee may grant the application and issue an order 146 permitting the filing of the case, motion or pleading. The party who is protected by the order 147 shall be served with a copy of the order at the same time as the underlying pleading.

148 (e) The findings of the judge or designee shall be in writing and made a part of the record 149 in the matter. If the party who is subject to the order restricting controlling and abusive litigation 150 disputes the finding of a designee, the party may seek review by the judge. If the party disputes 151 the finding of the judge, the party may seek review of the decision as provided by the applicable 152 court rules.

153 (3) If the application for the filing of a pleading is granted pursuant to this section, the 154 period of time commencing with the filing of the application requesting permission to file the 155 action and ending with the issuance of an order permitting filing of the action shall not be 156 computed as a part of any applicable period of limitations within which the matter must be 157 instituted.

158 (4) If, after a party who is subject to an order restricting controlling and abusive litigation 159 and prefiling restrictions has made application and been granted permission to file or advance a 160 case pursuant to this section, any judge hearing or presiding over the case, or any part thereof, 161 determines that the person is attempting to add parties, amend the complaint or is otherwise 162 attempting to alter the parties and issues involved in the litigation in a manner that the judge 163 reasonably believes would constitute controlling and abusive litigation, the judge shall stay the 164 proceedings and refer the case back to the judge or designee who granted the application to file, 165 for further disposition.

166 (5)(a) If a party who is protected by an order restricting controlling and abusive litigation 167 is served with a pleading filed by the person who is subject to the order restricting controlling 168 and abusive litigation, and the pleading does not have an attached order allowing the pleading, 169 the protected party may respond to the case by filing a copy of the order restricting controlling 170 and abusive litigation.

171 (b) If it is brought to the attention of the court that a person subject to an order restricting 172 controlling and abusive litigation and against whom prefiling restrictions have been imposed has 173 filed a new case or is continuing an existing case without having been granted permission 174 pursuant to this section, the court shall dismiss, deny or otherwise dispose of the matter. The 175 court make take this action on its own motion or initiative. The court may take whatever action 176 against the perpetrator of controlling and abusive litigation deemed necessary and appropriate for 177 a violation of the order restricting controlling and abusive litigation.

178 (c) If a party who is protected by an order restricting controlling and abusive litigation is 179 served with a pleading filed by the person who is subject to the order restricting controlling and 180 abusive litigation, and the pleading does not have an attached order allowing the pleading, the 181 protected party is under no obligation or duty to respond to the summons, complaint, petition, 182 motion, answer interrogatories, appear for depositions or any other responsive action required by 183 rule or statute in a civil action.

184 (6) If the judge or designee who imposed the prefiling restrictions is no longer serving in 185 the same capacity in the same judicial district where the restrictions were placed, or is otherwise 186 unavailable for any reason, any other judicial officer in that judicial district may perform the 187 review required and permitted by this section.
